New Steps Against Communist Forces, If Any, Not Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) - Presdent Johnson kept tight secrecy wraps today on what-if anynew moves he is planning to make to step up the fight against Communist forces in Southeast Asia.

A White House statement issued Wednesday night gave some indication, however, that Johnson and his advisers have decided to soft-pedal talk of drastic action such as enlarging the war in Viet Nam, at least for the time being.

Johnson received a report from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on the results of two days of intensive policy review which they conducted at a conference in Hawaii earlier this week.

Goldwater Vs. The Field

Sen. Goldwater's primary victory in Calfornia clinches him as the odds-on favorite for the Republican presidential nomination next month.

It brings to a focus the principal fact about his candidacy - that he has been alone in his bid for favor, with all the other candidates grouped in a loose coalition against him.

This was the way the primary race in California — the clincher — shaped up. Only New York Gov. Rockefeller was on the ballot against Sen. Goldwater, but it must have been understood by California Republicans that votes for Rockefeller were proxy votes against Goldwater. His was the real candidacy.

The Goldwater candidacy was for for keeps. The Rockefeller candidacy was for kicks. It now should be apparent to the New York governor that his presidential aspirations have become too expensive a hobby even for the Rocke-

He has had as long a run for his money as any multimillionaire could expect to have. There is no law to keep him from running as long as Harold Stassen has been running, if he feels that way about it. But there is common sense that keeps the rest of us from taking his running seriously. We have learned to think this way about Mr. Stassen. We shall now learn to think this way about Mr. Rocke-

THE QUESTION about the Goldwater candidacy now becomes more direct, It is not whether his more pointed candidacy will materialize in presidential proportions but whether his now presidentially-proportioned candidacy will bring him the party nomination when the Republican convention convenes July 13.

It takes 655 votes to nominate a GOP candidate this year. With California's 86 votes in his pocket, Sen. Goldwater is conceded by careful counters to be within a few dozen votes of victory on the first ballot. No one that close to a lockup of the nomination can be considered as anything but a heavy favorite.

Will it continue, then, to be Barry Goldwater against the field, or will the field concede the race?

More specifically, will Republican delegates elected to go to the convention and delegates who will be elected the position that is the only sensible thing These are the party stalwarts - the rest of this month in state conventions

start being pro-Goldwater, on the sup-professionals, the hard-core avocationists, the big contributors. They know how to count delegates, and they know how to count campaign contributions.

THEY ALSO KNOW how to count electoral votes.

When they have finished their counting, no one should be surprised if they decide everybody in the Republican race for preconvention favor this year has finished out of the money, except Barry Goldwater.

They will hate to lose Nelson Rockefeller, but it was inevitable. He and his Republican opposite in ideology have been irreconcilable ever since the GOP post-election blues in 1960 when Sen. Goldwater said he would be busy in 1964 if for only one reason-to stop Gov. Rocke-

He stopped him last Tuesday in Cali-

At this moment, no one is in sight to stop Sen. Goldwater in the Republican National Convention next July.

Something To See

Visualize an object a little more than a foot long and three inches in diameter. Then imagine anything this small containing a nuclear engine capable of operating months at a time in outer space, forcing a space capsule ever-higher by means of continuous thrust.

This is the newest concept in nuclear rocket propulsion design.

This is what will come to pass in due time, to go with a monster nuclear propulsion system capable of keeping space capsules from losing altitude. It will be the means of maintaining a communications satellite in perfect orbit indefinitely, matching the speed of the earth's rotation so the satellite will remain in a fixed position relative to the earth.

Since Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the potentialities of nuclear energy have been associated with violence. The new concept is a welcome change of emphasis. This we want to see.

Everything else in the nuclear age so far we'd just as soon have missed.

Jaycees-Past And Future

It has not only been the success of the many civic projects the East Liverpool Jaycees have undertaken in the past quarter century which makes the current observance of their 25th anniversary note-

This community has benefited to an even greater degre from the spirit of enterprise generated by those projects, from a feeling of energized action toward bettering the general welfare of the city in youth programs, in assisting democratic government processes, traffic safety and numerous other programs sponsored by the organization. Through the years, the Jaycees have applied themselves to these civic tasks with varying levels of accomplishment. In their best efforts, they created new ideas which resulted in progress for East

Liverpool and stimulated others to work in the same direction. In more modest years, the young men remained true to the final part of their creed by fulfilling the belief that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

It has not taken 25 years to prove East imaginative, active young men of leadership. It does not take a special anniversary event for this city to recognize its indebtedness for what the Jaycees have

But this commemoration should serve to remind both the community and the Jaycees of the continuing need for aggressive but thoughtful action in meeting goals, for determination to follow ideals, for sensible solutions to the plentiful problems facing all of us today.

Good Authority

One effect of the long-drawn-out hearings on proposals to tamper with the constitutional guarantee of freedom from political interference in religion is now

For the first few weeks of the hearing, members of Congress were flooded with mail from backers of the proposals to set aside the hands-off rule that has barred religion from lawmaking since the Bill of Rights went into force in 1791. This outpouring was supposed to intimidate Congress into taking hasty action.

As the hearings dragged on, testimony and mail from thoughtful citizens who have thought things through began to have an impact on congressmen. Typical of this is a statement by Paul G. Kauper, professor of law at University of Michigan Law School. Dr. Kauper emphasized that misrepresentation of Supreme Court decisions had been widespread. "Nothing in the court's decision precludes school authorities from designating a period of silence for prayer and meditation, or even for devotional reading of the Bible or any other book during this period," Dr. Kauper explained. He continued:

"Indeed, it may be that consistent with the court's decision schools may permit opportunity for voluntary participation in prayers of the students' own choice where the school authorities are not directly involved in prescribing the kind of prayer or in giving direction to it."

Instead of holding hearings on proposed amendments to the Constitution, Congress might have done well to hold hearings on gross misrepresentations of the U.S. Supreme Court's findings in the religious

Dissenting Opinions Rap Oath Ruling

The majority of the court declared that the language of the law of the State of Washington requiring a "loyalty oath" of employes is "unduly vague, uncertain and broad," and argued that the statute does not spell out exactly what is "loyal" or "disloyal." It's the vagueness, rather than the objective, which is held to be at fault. There is an inference that the teaching of communism or giving counsel to members of the Communist party does not necessarily mean an intention to overthrow the government by "revolution, force, or violence."

decision is unnecessary, because Justices Clark and Harlan, in a dissenting opinion, set forth in penetrating terms their own denunciation of the majority opinion. The dissenters said in part:

"It's strange that the (Su-preme) Court should find the language of this statute so profoundly vague when in 1951 it had no such trouble with the identical language presented by another oath in Gerende Vs. Board of Supervisors of Elections, 341 U.S. 56.

does this leave the constitution-

This is a good deal like saying that no restrictions can be imposed and no laws passed unless the exact nature of every offense is defined specifically. Certainly determining whether a man has, in fact, violated a law is a function of the courts, and it is assumed that the words are to be construed fairly and equitably by the judges on the bench.

THE PROCESSES of law themselves provide for correction of mistaken interpretations or of wrongful action. While the oath, for example, specifically bars membership in the Communist party, it asserts only that the employe is not a member "knowingly" of any other subversive organization. Many Americans will wonder why it is objectionable to ask a person who applies for a job as a teacher in public schools or colleges to sign an oath stating plainly that he would not advocate or advise or assist anyone else to overthrow the government of the United States by "revolution, force, or violence.

Soviet Charges U.S. With 'Inhumanity'

Through its diplomats in many cities across the world and in broadcasts from Moscow in several languages, the U.S.S.R. is steadily accusing the United States of deliberately and "inhumanely" cutting Cuba off from much needed drugs.

This story-which has an O. Henry ending-began in early May when the Castro government put out feelers for the purchase of millions of dollars worth of drugs in the United States. Shortly thereafter the U.S. Department of Commerce announced that all drugs sold to Cuba would need a federal export license.

A few days later, on May 19and this date is important-Moscow's Tass International Service broadcast in English a virulent attack on the United States.

The broadcast, which was read under a Havana dateline, contained the text of a letter dispatched to the United States by Cuba's foreign minister, Raul Roa through the Swiss ambas-

To put the "froth" on Roa's diatribe, the Moscow broadcaster added this comment of his own: "The United States is resorting to this disgusting act which contradicts the norms of civilization."

The following day, May 20, a

Moscow commentator named Orlov broadcast the following in Spanish

"By adopting this decision (the Commerce Department's rule) the enemies of Cuba have again unmasked themselves to the eyes of the world, and this time in a very clear way, as cynical hypocrites who disregard the elementary human and moral norms. . . . This is the only thing which the U.S. ruling circles have achieved with their decision to impose an embargo on medicines and foodstuffs, including children's food."

THE SAME DAY, the Cuban Domestic (radio) Service got into the ax-swinging act. It broadcast a resolution passed by the executive committee of the Cuban National Union of Medical Workers.

"The Yankee government, in its long chain of aggressions against the Cuban people, has ordered, through its Department of Commerce, the embargo of medicines destined for our country," the union said. "This stupid measure once again characterizes the Yankees and once again demonstrates the intention of the United States. . . .

to attack the Cuban people and their triumphant revolution by all means. In view of this criminal act. . . medical workers, aware of the duties they have in the society we are building, are more determined than any other sector to reply to the embargo on medications with more enthusiasm in our work."

This resolution was sent to all work centers and union locals in the drug production and laboratory field. Heavier work quotas and speedups were immediately instituted by the Castro government.

Two reports published May 30 rapped the nation's 700 junior colleges for not making such training a major part of their mission and a fundamental educational objective. While junior colleges do offer such programs, they also serve as transitional institutions for many boys and girls who go on to finish four years of college elsewhere.

"Man, .Education and Work," a 184-page paperback published by the American Council on Education, declares that "higher education should assume the responsibility for the education of youth and adults for occupational competence."

Written by Dr. Grant Venn, former president of Western State College of Colorado and now school superintendent of Wood County, W. Va., the paperback declares that only 20 per cent of those who enter high school finish college.

The other 80 per cent-the high school dropouts, the high school graduates who don't go to college and the students who don't finish college-are "entering a technological world of

they need for survival." The other report, "Technical Education in the Junior Colleges," by Norman C. Harris, is published by the American Association of Junior Colleges. Dr. Harris, associate professor of technical education at the University of Michigan, writes that "the nation's changing manpower needs demand a tremendous expansion of collegelevel occupational education.

In this decade, professional semi-professional and technical jobs will be increased by over 40 per cent, and clerical and sales jobs by 26 per cent. In contrast, jobs requiring unskilled workers will actually decrease."

Many of the new so-called "middle manpower" jobs require only two years of training beyond the high school, Dr. Harris points out.

"The middle 50 per cent of high school graduates are the future technicians," he continues. "They outnumber academically superior students by two to one.

"There educational needs are important, and the educational programs for these youth are respectable. Their need is also the nation's need. Junior colleges are uniquely fitted to serve both.

Have you ever seen 7,000 grown men cry? You'd think success would make them happy, but ever since Mustang came out, seven thousand Ford Dealers all over the country have been weeping and wringing their hands. They can't get as many Mustangs as they would like. All this would upset us, too, except it's happened to us before. You see, this was the hottest sales year in Ford Division history even before Mustang came out. At the beginning of the model-year, dealers couldn't get enough of our big, hot Super Torque Ford Hardtops (sales up 54%)...or luxurious Thunderbirds (sales up 68%). Falcon sales are almost as big as Chevy II and Valiant combined. Fairlane continues to be a leader in its field. So, even though some people would like us to put all our plants to work on Mustang, we can't let down our hundreds of thousands of Ford, Thunderbird, Falcon and Fairlane lovers. Why don't you come see what all the shouting's about? Ask your Ford Dealer for a test drive. (You might even get him to smile.)

Auto Injures

A 7-year-old East End boy was injured Wednesday afternoon when bumped by an auto while on Walters St. at Etruria St., police reported.

Rickey Davis, son of Robert Davis, 400 Walters St., was released after treatment at City Hospital for abrasions and contusions of the left elbow and right hip.

The child was bumped at 1:08 p. m. by a southbound 1960 sedan operated by Jerry W. Adams, 25, of 1631 St. George St., officers said.

The motorist told Patrolman Jerry F. Adkins he was driving south on Walters St. and as he approached the intersection another car pulled onto the thoroughfare from a side street, ignoring a stop sign, and stopped in the middle of the street.

Adams said he started to pull around the halted auto and the boy ran from behind the other car. Adams said his auto bumped the child and knocked him to the street. David F. Wilson, 1728 Holliday St. was a witness to the mishap, police said. Adams took the boy to the hospital.

A mishap on W. 5th St. Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. involved a 1950 four-door sedan operated by William Riedel, 948 Denver St., and a parked truck owned by Ray Shields of the Youngstown Rd., police said.

Donald Jones, 46, of 1291/2 W 6th St., operator of the truck, told police it was parked on W 5th and Riedel's car was parked behind it. Riedel apparently bumped the truck when pulling from the parking place, damaging the right side of his auto, Jones said.

The feature drew a full field of twelve horses, representing ten different interests, including two entries. The Canadian owner, Pat Santo, will saddle his invader Nadia, coupled with Shamrock Lass, as the solid choice for the race. The Schanauer entry of Kiperic and Lucky Turn Over appears to be the logical contenders in the race, along with Barter, who races in the colors of George J. Schatz.

Nadia will start from the number four post position and will carry 116 pounds with Floyd Green, leading rider during the spring meeting, doing the booting. Kiperic, carrying 121 pounds, drew the number ten post and will probably be ridden by Terry Lipham. Barter, with 121 pounds up, has the services of Ray Cooper at the reins.

Other horses comprising the speedy field are Tom McKelvey's Fair Student., Del Waite's Game Robing at 114 pounds., Raymond Sayre's Speedy Mare Weather Girl at 112., Francis Newborough's All This at 116., Erwin Taprenning's Easy Devil, 116., William Jacques' Mandy's Vale, 112., and Dale Blair's Marsuelin at 112.

-Junior Editors Quiz on— INSULATION

QUESTION: How does insulation keep out summer heat?

ANSWER: A number of different kinds of insulation are used in modern homes to keep cool in summer and warm in winter. In our picture, the father of the family is fixing the attic roof so it will keep cool and enable him to fix up a fine workshop and playroom for his son. He is putting "blanket insulation" between the rafters of the roof. These blanket pieces can be easily stapled against the roof. Then Dad will apply wall board and have a fine ceiling. Inside he blanket will be some kind of fibrous, fireproof material like wood fiber treated in various ways, hair felt, flax fiber or even eel grass. All these materials work because air gets trapped inside the fibers of the materials, so the blanket holds a mass of "dead" air. Heat, vibrating through the air, can't get all these little air sacs vibrating enough to pass itself along, so the inside of the house keeps cool. "Rigid insulation" is composed of panels of similar material which are one-half to seven-eighths inch thick. When insulation is poured or blown between floor or wall beams, this is "loose-fill." "Batts" are like blankets only in small sections. In winter, the insulation won't let the heat pass out, so it helps keep the house warm.

FOR YOU TO DO: Remember, from last winter, how comfortable a wool coat was on a cold day. Can you figure out why this was? Was the wool acting in much the same way as does the insulatoin between the roof rafters?
